SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

His Unexpected Death at Greystone.

Full Account of His Last Illness—He Retained His Faculties Until the End—Sketch of His Life.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Samuel J. Tilden died this morning. He passed away peacefully at Greystone at 8.45 o'clock. There were present with him Charles E. Simonds, Samuel Swift and his niece, Miss Gould. His death was entirely unexpected, and was due to failure of the heart, following an acute attack of diarrhoea and nausea.

As soon as the news of Mr. Tilden's death was received at Yonkers there was a good deal of excitement over it. Instantly the flags of the city buildings and newspaper offices were displayed at half-mast, and expressions of regret were heard on all sides at the death of the eminent statesman. It is said he had not been feeling well for several days.

Mr. Tilden had been in very feeble health for some time, yet his sudden demise this morning was entirely unexpected. The end was peaceful and quiet. There were present at the time Mr. Tilden's niece, Miss Gould, and Doctors Charles E. Simonds and Samuel Swift.

For several months he had been enjoying unusually good health, and in the last six months had gained 35 pounds in flesh. On Saturday he was taken with a slight chill while sitting on the porch overlooking the Hudson river, and was removed to his room, where he was attended by his friend, Dr. C. E. Simonds, of New York, who is stopping with his family on the neighboring estate. The cold settled in his bowels and stomach, causing vomiting and purging. With medical aid he felt much better on Sunday and went out in his carriage. Monday and yesterday he also felt much better. Last night Mr. Tilden was taken again with the same symptoms while in the parlor and was supported to his room by his valet and private secretary, George F. Smith. On reaching his room the ex-Governor experienced trouble in breathing. This alarmed his friends, and Dr. Simonds was called. The patient was suffering from nausea and diarrhoea, and was in great distress. The difficulty in breathing ceased after a while, and he was placed in bed. Later he was assisted to an easy chair. Dr. Simonds remained with him all night. Early this morning Mr. Tilden began to grow worse, and was again placed in bed. The generation of the gases in his stomach and bowels distended them and caused the failure in the action of the heart. A second attack of the difficulty in breathing recurred and Dr. Swift, of Yonkers, was called in consultation. He arrived at Greystone at 8 o'clock, but Mr. Tilden was then beyond the reach of all medical skill. The two physicians consulted together in whispers, but nothing could be done. No words were uttered by Mr. Tilden after Dr. Swift's arrival. He remained conscious to the last. The labored breaths grew fainter and more feeble, and at 8.45 a. m. the face of the dying man began to change. The ashen pallor of death slowly crept over his countenance. His eyes slowly closed and his muscles relaxed, and at 8.50 he breathed his last. At the time of his death the only persons in the room were Drs. Simonds and Swift, Miss Anna Gould, a relative, the amanuensis of the dead statesman and his faithful valet. The members of the family who are out of town were at once notified by telegraph of the sad event and are expected here to-night.

Paralysis and bodily infirmities incident to old age had reduced Mr. Tilden to a mere skeleton and his last days were marked by extreme feebleness. The routine of daily life for a year past at his beautiful residence on the Hudson was about as follows: He usually awoke in the morning about 4.30 o'clock; an electric bell at the head of his bed summoned his valet, who gave him his medicine which he took as regularly as he did his food. Afterwards he would lie abed until 8 o'clock, seemingly dozing, though when his valet, thinking him asleep, approached the bed, he found his bright eyes open and watching him. If he felt well he was assisted down to a 9 o'clock breakfast which usually consisted of milk and rich broth. Owing to paralysis, Mr. Tilden was unable to close his lips and his mouth was constantly open. His right hand from the same cause was entirely useless, trembling all the time. He had not even the power to raise it to his mouth. His left hand was but slightly affected by the stroke of paralysis and he had the partial use of it. In eating he used his left hand to hold up his lower jaw.

His faithful companion, Miss Anna Gould, who is the sister of the wife of Mr. Henry Tilden, placed to his mouth every particle of food that he ate. She generally put it in his mouth with a spoon and he was enabled to swallow it by raising his lower jaw with his left hand and putting his head back.

While at breakfast the morning papers were read to him and notes made by his secretaries at his direction of any important point or move in the political world. After breakfast he usually went into his office, on the right side of the hall, where he saw the different employes of the place and heard their respective reports.

His walk was slow and feeble, his paralyzed right leg moving with stiff, uncertain movement. He could not speak above a whisper and his thin and furrowed face and labored movements evoked sympathetic comments from the villagers who saw him leaning on the arm of his valet or his companion, Miss Gould, as he stepped to or from the carriage that took him on fine days for a ride about the country. His mental faculties, however, were bright and unimpaired up to the last. He suffered much from indigestion, and twice a week was visited by his physician, who often has spoken lately of Mr. Tilden's still robust intellect.

Dr. Simonds and Dr. Samuel J. Swift were with him when he died. His memory was usually retentive and to the last he preserved the most exact method in dealing with the concerns of his house and farm. Each day he talked with his business manager and confidential secretary, Mr. George W. Smith, and showed complete acquaintance with the smallest details of his business. His medicine was administered with almost mathematical exactness and it rarely happened that his night doses were missed at the regular time. And it was the same with his food. Every ounce he ate was calculated and weighed before it was prepared and set before him. Rich soups in quite small quantities were supplemented with small draughts of creamy milk, the latter the yield of his famous Alderneys and Guernseys, together with the tenderest part of a chicken, or a mere morsel of meat, minced so as to be readily masticated, made up his diet. These viands temptingly cooked and carried to his lips by his attendant frequently failed to rouse his appetite, and were returned almost untasted. It was a matter of comment among his intimates that he should have been able, on so little nourishment, to sustain life at all.

Sketch of His Life.

Samuel J. Tilden was born at New Lebanon, in the county of Columbia and State of New York, February 9, 1814—the year which ruined the fortunes of the great Napoleon. One of his ancestors, Nathaniel Tilden, was Mayor of the city of Tenterden, Kent, England, in 1623.

The Governor's father, a farmer and merchant of New Lebanon, was a man of notable judgement and practical sense and the accepted oracle of the county upon all matters of public concern, while his opinion was also eagerly sought and justly valued by all his neighbors, but by none more than by the late President Van Buren, who till his death, was one of his most cherished, intimate and personal friends.

From his father Governor Tilden inherited a taste for political inquiries, and in his companionship enjoyed peculiar opportunities for acquiring an early familiarity with the bearings of the various questions which agitated our country in his youth.

Young Tilden entered college in his 18th year.

Mr. Tilden had not been long at Yale College before his health gave way and obliged him to leave. After some rest he was enabled to resume his studies, and in 1834 entered the University of New York, where he completed his academic education. He then entered the law office of the late John W. Edmunds, in the city of New York, where he enjoyed peculiar faculties for the prosecution of his favorite studies of law and politics.

Upon his admission to the bar Mr. Tilden opened an office in Pine street, in the city of New York.

In 1844, in anticipation and preparation for the election which resulted in making James K. Polk President and Silas Wright Governor of the State of New York, Mr. Tilden, in connection with John L. O'Sullivan, founded the newspaper called the Daily News.

In the fall of 1845 he was sent to the assembly from the city of New York and while a member of that body was elected to the convention for the remodeling of the constitution of the State, which was to commence its sessions a few weeks after the legislature adjourned. In both of these bodies Mr. Tilden was a conspicuous authority, and left a permanent impression upon the legislation of the year, and especially upon all the new constitutional provisions affecting the finances of the State and the management of its system of canals.

Till the war came Governor Tilden made every effort to avert the rebellion. When his efforts, combined with those of other prominent patriots, had proved abortive, his convictions of duty were perfectly decided and clear. They were to maintain the integrity of our territory and the supremacy of the constitutional authorities. He had been educated in the school of Jackson, and had been a diligent student of the lessons taught by the nulification controversy of 1833. He had studied carefully and profoundly the relation of the federal and state governments. He had thus early formed perfectly clear and settled opinions, about which his mind never vacillated. They were the opinions of Jackson, of Van Buren, of Wright, and of Marcy, with whom, during most of their public lives, he had been on terms of personal intimacy.

When the war did come, Mr. Tilden associated himself with and was the private adviser of Mr. Dean Richmond then at the head of the Democratic party of New York, and who was accustomed on all important questions to visit Mr. Tilden in his retirement and seek his counsel.

When the peace came we find Mr. Tilden figuring as the friend and companion of William M. Tweed in running the Democratic party in New York State, he being elected Chairman of the Democratic State Committee on the death of Dean Richmond. Mr. Tilden acted in close union with Tweed until the war on the ring was started. On the eve of his downfall, Tweed began to fear that the alliance could not be maintained much longer, and in 1869 he made an effort to supersede Mr. Tilden as the head of the State Committee. Mr. Tilden promptly accepted the contest, and was sustained by nearly seven-eights of the convention.

By his bold acts against the Tweed Ring Mr. Tilden made himself prominent in the work of reform, and in 1874 was strongly urged to accept the Democratic nomination for Governor. Feeling that whatever might be the result of his administration, the moral effect of his election would be advantageous to the State and country, he consented to become a candidate. He was elected over Governor John A. Dix (Rep.) and Morgan H. Clark (Temp.) by a majority of 38,549, out of a total vote of 794,233. His first message distinctly foreshadowed the controlling features of his administration—adminstrative reform, and the restoration of the financial principles which triumphed in the election of Jackson and Van Buren.

It became evident to the least observing very early in Governor Tilden's executive career that he designed to appear in the national campaign of 1876. There was no reason why he should not do so.

The campaign was one of the most notable in the history of the country. It was under Governor Tilden's direction, and up to the close of the polls was without a mistake. Its events are sufficiently familiar not to need recounting here, and the questions involved by the final settlement are too complicated to be stated in detail in the time and space at our command. All honest and fair-minded men in the country believed and maintained that Mr. Tilden was fairly elected to the Presidency of the United States, and that he was cheated out of it.

Since the close of the famous Presidential imbroglio, Mr. Tilden has lived in retirement and almost in seclusion, his failing health preventing him from taking an active part in public affairs during a greater part of the past eight or ten years.

Seven years ago Mr. Tilden determined to enjoy that repose which years of arduous labor in public and private affairs entitled him to have and which an ample fortune enabled him to find. His physical strength was impaired and his health, never robust, was, with increasing age, becoming precarious. His vital organs were, however, sound. He needed and longed for uninterrupted quiet. He had always a fondness for the country. Horses, sheep, domestic fowls, and even dogs were to him something more than useful and ornamental appendages of a country establishment. They were objects of study and sources of intellectual recreation and enjoyment.

In 1879 he bought Greystone, one of the stateliest country places on the Hudson. The house stands on a natural knoll, the summit being 450 feet above the level of the river at high water.

Ripening Early Pears.

If there is any pear that is not better for being gathered while still hard, and allowed to ripen or mellow in a room where the temperature is even, we do not know it. Pears should be mature, but not ripe. After the fruit has made its full growth, and has received from the tree all the nourishment that this has to give, it prepares to leave the tree. Between the end of the stem of the pear and the point on the branch to which it is attached, there appears a joint, or a line, at which the stem parts very easily. If the pear be lifted, the stem will readily leave the tree at this point, leaving a clean scar, without breaking the stem. Whenever the stem readily parts in this manner, the fruit should be gathered. Early pears ripen rapidly and decay quickly. They are usually packed in half barrels or boxes, and if packed as soon as gathered, reach the consumer in good order, and in condition for eating. For home use, an excellent method is to spread the pears upon a blanket in a spare room, and cover them with another.—American Agriculturist for August.

The Widow Stewart.

A New York letter to the San Francisco Argonaut, says: "Some days ago, walking past that marble palace on Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue, I had a glimpse of Mrs. A. T. Stewart, the first for years. Poor old lady! One look at her is as good as a sermon on the follies of this life. Her coupe, gorgeous in gilded trappings and satin cushions, was standing at the curb and, just as I passed, the great white hall doors were thrown open with a flourish, and out she came. Against a long vista of marble columns and shining floors, she began to creep slowly down the stairs, leaning heavily on the arm of her major domo. That major domo, by the way, is a wonderful old creature. He looks like a creation of Trollope's, and always dresses in decent black, with a black velvet skull cap on his long, silvery hair, and his gold tipped wand of office in his hand. He led Mrs. Stewart with fatherly care down the long flight of steps, then at the bottom delivered her into the hands of two gigantic footmen, who supported her to the carriage, while a maid followed, her blooming face peeping out from under a mass of shawls and air-cushions. That the widow of the merchant millionaire is as fond as ever of the pomps and vanities is shown in her blushing cheeks, in the maze of wild black curls, bobbing into her eyes and pouring in a jetty cascade down her back; in her gown of black silk, stiff as pasteboard, and covered with laces and jet and red satin bows, dragging its heavy length out behind her. It looks, however, as if she could not have much more time left wherein to enjoy them. She was so feeble the other day that her footmen had almost to lift her into her carriage; then the maid came tripping to the door and began putting her into shape—punched up her cushions and arranged her shawls, pulled the gloves up over her tiny, trembling hands, twitched her bonnet into place, pulled down her veil, patted the bow under her chin and settled her into the carriage as one might settle an extra expensive doll.

He Had no Use for Kids.

'I hate kids,' he said.

'Why?'

'I think they ought to be locked up in asylums till they're old enough to take care of themselves. If it hadn't been for a kid—well—it might have been——'

'What?'

'I loved this kid's mother. She was a rich and beautiful widow, and I was madly in love with her. I was actually contemplating—in fact I had just got to the point of putting the delicate question. We were in the drawing room. The kid was playing in the corner. Forgetting all about that, I put my arms fervently around the widow's waist and implanted a passionate kiss upon her lips, when the kid started up and rushed at me. 'Don't you kill my mamma,' and ran screaming into the kitchen, calling for the servants.'

'That needn't have——'

'What? Marry a widow with a child like that! But the worst came a few nights after. I called at the house. There were several ladies there, and the kid was being petted all round. Of course the widow was all right, but that confounded child deliberately turned her back. I didn't mind that, but the mother, to be nice, said:

''You darling child, don't you know Mr. ——?'

''Oh, yes,' said the imp, very pretti/; 'oh, yes, I knew you; you are the man that bited my mamma,' I need not—I could not describe the effect.'

THE BASE BALL FEVER.—The United States is base ball mad this summer. Never before has it been so excited on the subject, seldom as enthusiastic on any other. To a large proportion of the population the result of a base ball match to-day is as important news as the result of a general election, and far ahead in importance to the proceedings in Congress. The American public has become enthused over base ball as ith as never before, and as no other public has been on sporting matters. Cricket in England cannot compare with it, and Continental Europe, we know, has never appreciated "sport" to any extent. The Putney race, or the meeting at Epsom, may, it is true, create more excitement, but these are mere spurts, whereas the base ball fever lasts in this country all the summer and fall through, and even in the winter the players are popular heroes, storing up strength for the coming seasons.—Ex.

JANET'S ROMANCE.

'He is a young Scotchman,' Lela said, 'and papa being one, too, they have a certain sympathy in common. We know nothing of this Mr. Donald Maclane, but we admire him extravagantly, and—well, he is to be at my ball, so you will see him, Mollie; so will you Janet," turning suddenly to the stranger; then, a new thought seeming to strike her. 'You are Scotch yourself; Douglass is purely a Scotch name,'

Miss Douglass shrank a moment, but a faint color stole over her white, perfect face as she turned her blue eyes on Lela and smiled a little.

Half an hour later I was able to ask Lela who she was, without being overheard by the others, and Lela told me she had been one of the underteachers in the seminary from which she (Lela) had graduated.

'I fell in love with her and coaxed her to come here for vacation,' Lela said, showing how the world wronged her when it called her a heartless flirt, 'and as she was quite ill when the seminary opened in September we would not let her think of going back to her teaching. My papa has influence, Mollie, and he has used it to keep her position open for her until she is ready to go back to it, which she tells me she intends doing in a fortnight.'

'She is lovely,' I said impulsively; 'she must be about 28, Lela. Has she a lover?'

'I have a fancy that there is a 'braw lover' of hers in the Scottish highlands some place,' Lela answered. 'I had a plan, Mollie, dear. I wanted this Donald Maclane to fall in love with Janet, but I could never induce her to meet him; he is here often and she always avoids him. I have thought it might be because she didn't want to be reminded of her Scotch home.'

That night at the ball I met Mr. Maclane. I noticed that Miss Douglas avoided him. While the ball was at its height I found her looking very beautiful and very pale, dressed simply in dark gray, and for the moment quite alone.

The rooms are so warm and my head is aching,' I said to her. 'Would you mind going out with me a few moments? Or are you engaged for the next waltz?'

'I do not waltz, she answered, quietly. 'I will be glad of a moment in the outer air;' and arm in arm, we went along the wide hall, pausing briefly on the veranda. Below I saw a gleam of fire, and knew Donald Maclane was walking there—alone.'

"Some gallant pays us a poor compliment,' I laughed. 'I perceive the odor of a cigar,' very innocently, indeed.

'If it should be——,' she began, and then the burning point was coming directly towards us, and I would not let her turn away. A tall figure became plainly visible and the fleck of light took a flight, swifter than that of a firefly—Mr. Maclane had seen us and flung his cigar away.

'Come back; come in; let me go,' Miss Douglass said, pantingly, as he left the shadows and she saw who it was, but I was determined and held her hand firmly.

'It is only Mr. Maclane,' I said, and then I addressed him. 'You don't seem very fond of balls Mr, Maclane,' I said, pleasantly. 'You came out for a smoke. Miss Douglas and I came out for a breath of air.'

'Miss Douglas!' he repeated, starting plainly in the moonlight; and then, gravely and clearly, with a touch of scorn in the sweet voice and a new dignity in the slim figure which had suddenly drawn to its full height, the girl spoke:

'I have not been presented to this gentleman,' she said, coldly. 'I am quite a stranger to him.'

'Janet, my love, have I found you?' he questioned. And then she turned to me.

'Will we not go in?' she asked. 'This gentleman has made a strange mistake.'

"Do not make one yourself, Miss Douglas,' I said quietly, liking the man before for the moved pallor of his fine face and pitying him for the pain upon it. I turned away and left them together.

Later Janet came to me with tender, love lit eyes, and kissed me as though I had been her sister.

'I am so happy!' she said, softly; 'so very, very happy! And I had steeled my heart against him and would have turned away without touching his hand when you spoke. I was an orphan, and Mrs. Maclane took me to her lovely home in the highlands; and she showered on me all the kindly care and mother's love which she would have given a daughter had she had one.

'Then Donald loved me, and she grew suddenly cold as ice; and she planned to keep us apart, for she had other, hopes for her only son. Donald was sent from home on a tour, and then she—I cannot tell you how—made me believe that he had ceased to love me, that he wrote her of his love for a fair English girl whom he had met abroad and I got no letters. I grew wild with pain, and the fierce rebellion against my independence seemed to madden me. I gave her his ring and every little love-gift, to be given him when he returned, and, eight years ago, with a few letters of introduction only and scarcely a farthing in my purse, I found myself on board a vessel bound for America.'

Her voice faltered and her white hands clasped each other closely; but in a moment she smiled.

'It is past now,' she said softly; 'all has gone by now, and the future has nothing but love for me—for him. Mrs. Maclane is dead, and I can forgive her because I am so happy.'

Kindness to a Stranger.

The other morning a man arrived in Detroit for some point in Kentucky having among his luggage three fishing rods, two dogs, two guns, a tent and two pairs of rubber boots. He had heard that Michigan was chuck full of boss localities for a man on his vacation, and he asked Officer Button at the depot which way he'd better head from here.

'Want to camp out?'

'Well, I've got a tent, but I guess it will be safer to sleep in a hotel.'

'Want to fish?'

'No, I dont care about it. I've brought my outfit along, but what's the use of catching fish?'

'Those your hunting dogs?'

'Yes, but they ain't worth their salt. It kind o' looks the thing to bring 'em along, and they are sort o' company like.'

'You have guns there!'

'Well, yes, but I never fired a gun in my life. It looks more business-like to bring 'em, you know?'

'Do you want to go in the woods?' asked the officer.'

'No not particularly. The woods are pretty damp and full of mosquitoes, and I can't see any fun in that.'

'Might go up to St. Clair flats.'

'Yes, I might, but what's the use? All I could do would be to stop at the hotel and catch a few fish and row a boat and shoot at a few birds.'

'How's Macdinac?'

'It's only an island. What's the use of sqatting down for a month on an island when we've got so much land in this county?'

'Petoskey is a favorite resort,' said the officer.

'That's on the shore of the lake, and, I don't care for the water'

'Why don't you go out to some farm house?'

'Too lonesome.'

'Well, stay right here then.'

'Too lively.'

'See here, said Buttou as he turned around on him, 'what sort of a place are you looking for, anyhow?'

'Hanged if I know.'

'What made you come?'

'Well, I have a four week's vacation, you know, and it seemed the thing to go off somewhere.'

'Well if I were you I'd take the next train for home, and put in my vacation lying in my own dooryard.'

'I guess I will, yes that seems the best plan. Please keep an eye on my traps until I can buy a ticket, and I can assure you I'm a thousand times obliged to you for your kindness to a stranger.

Faithful to the Last.

The Indianapolis Sentinel says: Judge Durham, First Comptroller of the Treasury, was married the other day. He was, says the Boston Traveller, at his desk at work when on eof his clerks entered.

'Why, Judge,' she exclaimed, 'here you are at work on your wedding day. I hear you are to be married at half past 3 o'clock, and here it is half past 2.'

The Comptroller looked up and said: 'Yes, I am to be married in an hour. I can finish this work in thirty minutes, and that will leave me just thirty minutes to dress and get to the house. You can rest assured that I will be there. The ceremony cannot go on without me.'

THE REAL CAPITALIST.—The Philadelphia Record says a capitalist is a man who having paid for his breakfast has enough enchangeable property remaining in his possession to pay for his dinner. Yet there are theorists who insist that there will be no happiness until all mankind are dead-broke after breakfast, and no one has anything and everybody has everything.

Congress—HON. A. G. CURTIN, subject to the decision of the congressional district convention.

Senate—HON. P. GRAY MEEK, subject to the decision of the senatorial district convention.

The Democratic County Convention in Bellefonte on Tuesday.

Tuesday was a gala day for the county democracy and early in the forenoon Bellefonte was astir with people who had come to the county seat to attend the convention. All forenoon and up to the time of the convention in the afternoon the square around the Court House very much resembled a bee hive, where candidates, delegates, voters, county officers and politicians were busy discussing the probable result of the convention and also doing a little work here and there for their friends. At 15 minutes before two the court house bell rang, giving the signal for the delegates to assemble. In a very short time the spacious hall was filled with an anxious crowd.

Chairman Hoy opened the meeting by stating its object and making a few remarks. He said that the unusually large attendance of the Democrats was a pleasing sight and augurs well for the success of the party. The organization of the convention being first in order, Mr. Graham, of Philipsburg, was elected President, W H. Kreamer, of Penn township, Clerk, and A. A. Frank, of Millheim, and Thos. McCann, of Snow Shoe, Tellers. The Clerk then called the roll of delegates.

L. T. Munson, Dr. Allport, M. Hess, Jno. H. Beck and Reuben Harter were appointed a committee on contested seats and they reported in favor of Mr. Butler, of Milesburg and P. J. McDonald, of Unionville.

D. F. Fortney, Andrew Ocker, W. H. Blair, P. J. McDonald and I. S. Frain, were elected as a committee a on resolutions.

The convention then proceeded with the nominations. The name of Hon. A. G. Curtin was presented for Congress and as there was no other candidate the gentleman received the unanimous nomination. J. B. Fisher, Balser Weber and C. G. Herlinger were elected Congressional Conferees.

Next in order was the nomination for Senate and at this stage Hon. C. T. Alexander withdrew his name as a candidate, leaving Hon. P. Gray Meek the only candidate. Mr. Meek was nominated by acclamation. The Senatorial Conferees are J. H. Holt, W. F. Reynolds and Jas. Gilliland.

The names of Hon. L. Rhone and J. A. Woodward being the only ones mentioned for Assembly these gentlemen were also nominated by acclamation.

When this part of the ticket was disposed of the ripple of excitement which ran through the vast assemblage was a sign that the most interesting and warmest struggle was at hand. Four names were announced to the convention for the nomination to the Prothonotaryship, viz: L. A. Shaeffer, Wm B. Mingle, J. C. Harper and Aaron Williams. Mr. Harper and Mr. Williams however withdrew their names before a ballot was had and thus it became a square battle between Shaeffer and Mingle. Only one ballot was necessary to decide the result, Mr Shaeffer having 61 votes and Mr. Mingle 30.

This contest being ended the majority of the spectators left the hall. One more nomination was to be made, that for District Attorney, and Mr. J. C. Meyer being the only candidate he was elected by acclamation.

G. W. McCaffey was chosen as delegate to the state convention in place of L. G. Lingle.

W. K. Alexander, McCann, Patterson and Holt are the delegates to the state convention in 1887.

A ballot was had for the election of a Chairman of the County Convention for 1887. Jas. A. McClain was elected, the vote standing 59 for McClain, against 25 for Sechler.

Mr. Sechler was then elected the member of the state committee from this county.

After these nominations and elections the committee on resolutions reported the following:

The Democracy of Centre County, in convention assembled declare their hearty approval and support of the Principles contained in the platform adopted by the last Democratic National Convention. We favor an honest civil service, a fair and just revision of the tariff "without depriving American labor of the ability to compete successfully with foreign labor and without imposing tower rates of duty than will be ample to cover any increased cost of production which may exist in consequence of the higher rate of wages prevailing in this country.

2. We heartily favor the thorough reform methods of President Cleveland in the administration of the government. We recognize in his official acts and declarations a resolute determination to fulfill the pledges made to the people and upon which he was elected President. To this end we affirm his clear and indisputable right to promptly remove officials who have prostituted the public service to partisan or personal ends. The reform of abuses and searching investigation already made in the several departments of the Federal Government is the assurance that in the present administration the country has secured that thorough organization of the civil service which has already effected an honest, practical and efficient administration of the government. We endorse the firm and honest execution of the law and the faithful and rigid use of the veto power in the interest of reform and economical government.

3. We approve of the administration of Hon. Robert E. Pattison and enthusiastically endorse the efforts of himself and his advisors to maintain and enforce the constitution, to secure a just and honest apportionment, to guard the interests of the people and to secure the economy and honest in the administration of the state government.

4. Every legitimate effort of labor to better its condition, advance its rewards and protect its rights commands the support of the Democratic party. We demand that the wages of labor shall be paid in cash and we denounce the payment of wages on store orders by whosoever and wheresoever it has been practiced.

5. We endorse the course of Hon. A. G. Curtin, who has so ably represented the people of this district in Congress and who at all times faithfully guarded and cared for the interests and welfare of the people, not of his district only but of the entire state.

6. We commend the course of the Hons. J. A. Woodward and Leonard Rhone as the representatives of this county in their honest advocacy of measures to break up the discrimination in freights by Railroads and we hereby pledge them to the support of every measure that may come before the next legislature, having for its object the breaking up of this evil practice by our railroads.

Resolved that we heartily endorse the course of the Hon. Wm A. Wallace, as our representative in the councils of the state and nation. By long and faithful public service he illustrates unfaltering devotion to high political principle and fealty to party. His honesty, honor, and capacity, his labors and abilities have merited and entitled him to the confidence and united support of the Democracy of the state.

A resolution pledging the hearty support of the democracy to the ticket from beginning to end was adopted and the convention adjourned.

The convention did its work smoothly and in less than three hours, and a harmonious and enthusiastic spirit prevailed throughout its proceedings. The ticket nominated is composed of the best men in the party, all of them tried and proven Democrats, with splendid records, and who enjoy the full confidence of the people, and we have every reason to believe that they will receive the most hearty support of the party in November, and that the Democrats of Centre will at the coming election give their ticket one of their old majorities.

BOTH houses of Congress adjourned last Thursday at 4 o'clock. The session occupied seven months and twenty-eight days, during which time there were introduced in the House 10,014 bills and 214 joint resolutions, and in the Senate 2,891 bills and 83 joint resolutions, making a total in both houses of 13,202 bills. Of this number few were of national importance Nearly all of them were of a private nature, such as relief and pension bills, bills for the erection of public buildings, for bridging rivers, for granting right of way to railroads, changing judicial districts, &c., &c. Not many of these bills became laws. Of the 987 measures which became laws all but two were private pension and relief bills. The two exceptions were the bill to authorize the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Gulf Railway Company to construct a railway through the Indian territory and that to retire Lieut. Randall. 113 of the measures were vetoed by the President.

HON. WILLIAM A. WALLACE has at last given his consent to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. His hesitancy in yielding to the wishes of his many party friends is clear evidence that the gentleman had no very strong desire to enter the contest, but, as he remarked in an interview with a newspaper reporter, if the party see fit to select him as their standard bearer, and do it with unmistakable unanimity, he feels in duty bound to answer their call. It is beyond a dispute that Senator Wallace always was a pronounced Democratic leader and if chosen by the convention as the head of the ticket his name will be vastly instrumental in uniting and strengthening the party.

CHAIRMAN RYNDER postpones the State Convention of the National Greenback party of Pennsylvania by issuing the following order:

MILESBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—By the authority vested in me, and at the solicitation of many leading members of our party, the State Convention of the Greenback-Labor party is hereby postponed, and will convene at Harrisburg on Thursday, September 16.

[Signed] F. P. RYNDER,
Chairman.

SAMUEL J. TILDEN, the sage of Greystone, and for many years the leader of the democratic party in the nation is no more. He expired peacefully last Wednesday morning. Tilden's death is universally lamented. He was far above the common level of professional politicians. He was a man who sacrificed personal ends and interests for the good of his fellowmen. Until a few years ago he was in the true sense of the word the head of the democratic party in the United States. We publish a detailed account of his death on our outside.

W. U. HENSEL, the chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, last Thursday issued a call for a meeting of said committee, and also of the Executive Committee, in the city of Harrisburg, immediately after the adjournment of the State Convention.

ACCORDING to the Philadelphia Times seventy-three delegates to the Democratic State Convention are instructed for Black, and fifty-one for Wallace. But the majority of delegates go uninstructed and will vote for the best man.

TENNESSEE Democrats had a regular walk over at their elections last Friday. They elected five Supreme Court Judges, a full list of county officers, Judges and Clerks of every court in the state. The reports give a democratic majority of about 35,000 to 40,000.

LEVEL-HEADED men and democrats drew up the resolutions appearing among the county convention proceedings, and don't you forget it.

Miscellaneous News.

Fitz John Porter Retired.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The following order was issued at the War Department to-day: "By direction of the President, Fitz John Porter, having been appointed a colonel in the army under the provisions of an act of Congress, approved July 1, 1886, is hereby placed on the retired list of the army, in that grade, as of this date, in pursuance of the authority conferred by the said act, and at his own request."

Killed Instantly.

CARLISLE, Aug. 8.—One of the saddest accidental killing affairs took place yesterday near Shippensburg, between Lowrie Sibbett and his cousin, Andrew Witherspoon, by the careless handling of a revolver, it going off and sending a bullet through the head of Andrew, killing him almost instantly. Both young men were very popular in that neighborhood, and are graduates of the State Normal School at that place.

Chambersburg, Pa., was visited by a destructive fire last Saturday night. The large frame building owned by the Baltimore and Cumberland Valley Railroad and occupied by them as a freight ware house and by Messrs. Stoner & Stilter, grain dealers, was totally destroyed with all its contents. The loss amounts to over $30,000, partly covered by insurance. The lives of three men were lost during the fire. They had entered the building to remove some of the goods and were overcome by the smoke and flames

40,000 People at a Campmeeting.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—A special dispatch from Oakland, Ill., says: Never since the time Lincoln and Douglas met in joint debate at Mattoon has there been such a large crowd of people gathered here as that which met on the Murdock campmeeting grounds yesterday. Long before daylight the people began to gather on the grounds. In the afternoon the crowd was estimated at 60,000 people. It would be no exaggeration to put it at 40,000. Bishop Dwight, of Boston, presided at the morning service and preached from the main stand to a congregation of 20,000 people. Other speakers made addresses from other stands. Religious enthusiasm ran high, and the conversions numbered hundreds.

A Big Mortgage.

A $600,000 Mortgage Placed on the Valentine Ore Lands.

From the Harrisburg PATRIOT.

BELLEFONTE, Aug. 6.—Yesterday a mortgage for $600,000, purchase money on the Valentine real estate and ore lands was filed in the Recorder's office in this place. It was issued to the Fidelity Insurance Company. The property consists of 12,000 acres of ore land and 60 houses, and has been in successful operation under the management of the Valentine family for over 50 years. A syndicate of Philadelphia capitalists are the purchasers. A lease has been made of a portion of the property to a corporation called the Bellefonte Iron Company, who are erecting a furnace which will have a capacity of 100 tons per day. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have agreed to extend their lines to the different ore banks in order to facilitate shipments.

Troops for a Mexican War.

SHAMOKIN, Aug. 5.—Col. Nields of this place, late Lieutenant Colonel of the 104th Pennsylvania volunteers has recruited a company of one hundred men, and offers its service to the United States in the event of a Mexican war.

The Busy President.

Mr. Cleveland Will Not Take His Vacation Until Week After Next.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The President will not leave Washington for his summer vacation until week after next. He will go direct to the Adrondack Mountains, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Folsom and some intimate friends. The President denied himself to visitors to-day, and devoted his entire attention to the measures sent him by Congress for his action. The members of the Cabinet were with him at the White House most of the day, assisting in the consideration of bills, &c. By 12 o'clock the President had, with very few exceptions disposed of all the measures then before him. The deficiency, sundry civil and river and harbor appropriation bills were enrolled and sent to the President for approval about noon to-day.

Through the Rapids.

Two More Adventurers go Through the Whirlpool at Niagara.

BUFFALO, Aug. 8.—The turbulent waters of the Niagara whirlpool rapids were again navigated in a cask to-day, the perilous feat being successfully accomplished by two men. The daring voyagers were William Potts and Geo. Hazlitt, two coopers, who were employed in the same shop with Graham, who made the initial trip about three weeks ago. The barrel-boat was 10 feet long, conical in form and built of the best locust staves. It was supplied with a keel, rudder, screw wheel and turrett with glass covered peep holes. About 300 pounds of sand ballast kept it right side up most of the time. The two men lay back to back while passing through the more turbulent waters, clinging to handles made fast to the sides of the cask. Each was likewise kept on his own side of the cask by the means of a canvass sling made fast to staples. The start was made from Maid of Mist landing, on the Canada side, at 4.20 p. m. A row boat towed the cask to a point just above Cantilever bridge when it was turned adrift in the middle of the stream. The novel craft was submerged about half the time while passing through the rapids, but while circumscribing the outer circle of the whirlpool its occupants thrust their heads through the opening, and Potts cooly smoked a cigar. A successful landing was made at Queenstown on the Canadian side, five miles further down the river. The entire voyage occupied 53 minutes. The feat was witnessed by no less than 15,000 spectators.

Had a Beetle in His Ear.

HORDY'S, Pa., Aug. 6.—James Cole lives with his wife near here. A few nights ago he awoke with a strange thumping in his right ear, followed by twinges of pain, as though the lining of the ear were being seized and torn away. Almost crazed, he woke up his wife and told her something had crawled into his ear and was eating its way through his head. Mrs. Cole lighted a lamp and tried to find what the foreign substance in her husband's ear was by feeling in with a hair-pin and a knitting needle. She was unable to draw it out. Mr. Cole then dressed himself to drive to the doctor's, eight miles distant. His wife happened to think that certain insects were generally fascinated by a light, and she had her husband wait until she tried an experiment. She held a candle close to his ear, assuring him that if it was a snapping bug or a miller of any kind it would come out to the light. In less than a minute Mrs. Cole saw the head of a formidable looking bug thrust out of her husband's ear. The head was quickly followed by a body an inch long. The bug crept out and Mrs. Cole knocked it on the floor. A stream of blood followed the exit of the bug from Cole's ear. Mrs. Cole stepped on the bug and killed it. It was one of those big beetles that have their heads hung on a hinge, and work them up and down with a loud snap when in use. Thanks to his wife's knowledge of insect habits, Mr. Cole was rescued from the bug in time to prevent serious consequences.

Cutting Sentenced.

Six Hundred Dollars Fine and One Year at Hard Labor.

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 8.—Judge Sabida, the Mexican magistrate who, possibly from motives of diplomacy, stated on Friday that he would deter passing sentence on Editor Cutting, changed his mind yesterday afternoon and sentenced the American newspaper man to one year's imprisonment at hard labor and to pay a fine of $600. The feeling all along the Rio Grande on the Texas side, which ever since the commencement of the Cutting trouble has been at fever heat, was intensified today when the news reached this side. At many places the wildest kind of excitement prevailes, and there are fears that an outbreak will be precipitated by hot-headed patriots, who cannot brook the insult that has been offered to the American flag.

It is believed that the action of the Mexican Judge, which seems to have been taken with a deliberate intention of showing contempt for the United States Government, will have the effect of bringing matters to a crisis.

If he cannot pay the fine he will have to serve 100 days longer. Medina, who caused all the trouble, has leave to sue Cutting in a civil suit for damages. The question of censuring the American Consul Brigham, and asking for his removal is referred to the Supreme Court at Chihuahua. Cutting will probably be hurried off to prison at Chihuahua to-night.

Texas Blood Boiling.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8.—The Globe-Democrat's New Laredo, Mexico, special says: "All day long the recently arrived troops in this city paraded the streets in different parts of the city. The force numbers about 400, of which one company is cavalry and one artillery. The latter company went to the river bank two or three times during the day and swung the muzzles of three cannons toward Texas with great bravado. This exhibition caused the blood of the average man on the Texas side of the river to boil with indignation. Eighty cavalry horses for the lower Rio Grande have arrived at Laredo, bound for Brownsville. From another source it is learned that parts of two regiments of Mexican troops have been sent from Saltillo and Monterey to Piedras Negras, and that other forces have even been ordered from interior States to various points on the eastern frontier.

The Cutting Affair Growing Serious

DENVER, Col., Aug. 9.—An El Paso special says: The excitement over the Cutting imbroglio is much intensified to-day. A passenger on the train from Chihuahua City this morning says that it is known positively that the Governor has ordered the Paso del Norte authorities, in case of an attack from the Texans troops, to cut off the prisoner's head and deliver it to the Americans. Eight hundred Mexican troops are said to have left Lagos for El Paso del Norte on Sunday night. It is asserted that a second demand has been made, and that the American officials have been notified to leave Mexico. Large crowds gather at every street corner. The arrival of Company F, Tenth United States Cavalry, at Fort Bliss, which was assigned here two weeks ago, has caused a rumor to the effect that eight car loads of United States soldiers are on the spot. The bad effects of these difficulties upon business are becoming apparent, and everything looks like war from a Mexican standpoint. A report was circulated to the effect that Consul Bingham had confirmed the statement that a second demand for Cutting's release had been made by the United States Government, and the people went wild with delight. Bingham, however, says that he was misunderstood, that he expects such a demand at any moment but does not know that it has yet ever made. Cutting has been called before the court in Paso del Norte, and Consul Brigham is in attendance.

—A hack full of gentleman passed through town one day last week, apparently bound for Coburn. We could not learn who they were, but we could see and hear that they were a jolly crowd and were evidently out on a lark.

—The contract for the new school building in Bellefonte has been awarded to Col. D. K. Tate. The cost of the building will be $10,649. It will be of brick, contain six large rooms, a large room for the High School and two recitation rooms.

Wonderful Cures.

W. D. Hoyt & Co., Wholesale and Retail Druggists of Rome, Ga., say: We have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery, Electric Bitters and Bucklen's Arnica Salve for two years. Have never handled remedies that sell as well, or give such universal satisfaction. There have been some wonderful cures effected by these medicines in this city. Several cases of pronounced Consumption have been entirely cured by use of a few bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery, taken in connection with Electric Bitters. We guarantee them always. Sold by all druggists.

—Mr. John Rockey, of Cedarville, Stephenson Co., Ill., has been visiting friends in Centre county for the last three months, and came to this town on Tuesday to see his old acquaintances. He favored the JOURNAL with a pleasant call yesterday, and intends starting for his western home next week.

LOST.—Mrs. Jas. D. Lose had the misfortune to lose a gold dollar, which had been attached to her finger ring, and which was a very valuable relic to her. It bore the initials of her grandmother, Mrs. Held, who had presented it to her. The finder will confer a great favor upon the lady by returning the coin.

—The Sterling Comedy Company disbanded and left for their homes on Monday. Though their entertainments were of the best class their houses during all of last week were small and consequently the troupe considered their stay in Millheim a financial failure. Times are too hard for our people—there is where the shoe pinches.

—We are reliably informed that Prof. W. T. Meyer, residing at Shamokin, Pa., has quit teaching music, as it proves injurious to his health. He is now actively engaged in the store business, in which he holds an interest. We are sorry to learn that the Professor is compelled to give good-bye to a profession in which he was a master.

—We are informed that the W. H. and F. M. Society of Rebersburg are active and doing good work for the Master. They are getting up a quilt which is nearly finished and the income is already beyond all expectation. Arrangements are made to educate a native boy in India at a cost of $25 per annum. May others do likewise in the Lord's cause.

NEW SHOEMAKER SHOP.—Mr. J. P. Sylvis, of Aaronsburg, has rented a room on the second story of J. W. Snook's building, corner of Main and North, where he is prepared to do all work in the boot and shoe line promptly and cheaply. He may be found at his bench any time during working hours and he invites the public to call on him and give him a liberal share of patronage. Next door to Geo. L. Springer's barber shop. 30-4t

—Walter Thos. Mills, of New York, who lectured in Millheim last February to a delighted audience will lecture at Spring Mills on Friday evening Aug. 20th, at 7.30 P. M., Aaronsburg Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock., Rebersburg Saturday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, and Millheim Monday evening, Aug. 23rd, at 7.30 o'clock. All who can should not fail to hear him.

—The Liver is the largest gland in the human organism and stands guard, as it were, at the portals of health. Properly performing its functions it climinates all impurities and disease germs from the blood; failing in this misery and disease follows. An occasional dose of McDonald's Improved Liver Pills will insure regular, healthy and vigorous action of this great gland, and save doctors' bills and days of misery. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

GOOD ADVICE.—Don't attempt to cheat an editor out of a year's subscription of his paper, or any sum. Cheat the minister, cheat the lawyer, cheat the butcher, anybody, but if you have any regard for the future consequence, don't fool with the printer. He will get even with you, and more, too. You will be put up for office some time, or want some public favor yourself or some of your friends, and just when your luck is a thing of beauty and a joy forever, the printer will open upon you and knock your air castles into a cocked hat at the first blow. —Bill Nye.

—A pure and reliable medicine—a compound fluid extract of roots, leaves, barks and berries is Burdock Blood Bitters. They cure all diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys.

—The primaries in the county last Saturday resulted in a victory for L. A. Shaffer, for Prothonotary. Millheim Borough instructed for Harper, he having received 31 votes, against 27 for Shaffer and 29 for Mingle.

—Next Sunday evening an address will be delivered in the Lutheran church at Rebersburg on "Catechise," under the headings Its origin and its object, preparatory to the formation of a class. The text will be from Luke 1: 3 & 4.

—Our readers are reminded that the Evangelical Aid Society of this place will hold an ice cream festival next Saturday afternoon and evening in the Rink on Penn street, when the patronage of a generous public is respectfully requested.

—Don't forget the festival by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Evangelical church in the Rink next Saturday afternoon and evening. The object is a laudable one and the festival should be well patronized, as no doubt it will be, by the community in general.

—Mrs. Garman, the wife of Daniel Garman, the well-known hotel proprietor in Bellefonte, died on Wednesday afternooon of last week, after a short illness and at the age of 52 years. The cause of her death is supposed to have been an affection of the heart.

TOO MUCH FOR ONE DAY.—A Sunday School picnic in the mountains south of Penn Hall, a Harvest Home picnic at Penn's Cave, and an ice cream festival in Millheim are billed for next Saturday. Pleasure seekers can take their choice on that day.

—Mr. Messinger, formerly of Centre Hall, now of Joliet, Ill., is at present visiting friends in this valley and was a caller at this office one day last week. The gentleman removed west about eight years ago and is now the proprietor of an extensive music store in Joliet. This is his first visit East since his departure.

—J. W. Snook, one of our leading merchants, contemplates selling either the half or the whole of his store, corner of Main and North streets, to a gentleman from Brisbin, Clearfield Co., next week. Negotiations to that effect have been pending the past few weeks between the parties. The purchaser will move to town next Tuesday, when the matter will be fully decided.

—The Methodist people are rapidly pushing the work on their church. Israel Confer & Son, the contractors are making good headway and when done the church will be as good as new. This is something they have needed badly for some time and it is with pleasure we note the renovation. We understand that the structure will have all the modern improvements, such as an independent tower, colored glass windows, &c.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—A festival will be held by the Union Sunday School, in the grove of Levi Long, near the brick school house, about three and a half miles west of Madisonburg, on Saturday, Aug. 28th. The refreshments served will be ice cream, cakes, lemonade, confectioneries, &c. The proceeds of the festival are for the benefit of the school. No hucksters will be allowed on the grounds. Everybody is cordially invited to come and participate.

—Our townsman, Mr. C. W. Hartman, tells us that he was shown quite a curiosity the other day while on a visit to David Bartges, near Penn Hall. It is a tree in Mr. Bartges' woods, back of Penn Hall, with two trunks, growing out of the ground seperately and permitting a person to walk through. At a height of about 10 feet from the ground they meet and form into a single snd well-developed tree. The bark of this wonderful tree bears innumerable initials and dates, the latter dating back as far as 1851.

—No one, better than the mothers, knows the amount of persuasion, threatenings and force required to induce the children to take, when necessary, a dose of the nauseating, sickening worm syrups; and no one more highly appreciates the virtues of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. So pleasant and easy to take, so effective as a worm destroyer, the dose so small that the children never know they are taking a medicine. There is nothing in the shape of a vermifuge that can compare with them. Don't be deceived, Take no other. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN.—The announcement of the death of Mr. John Harper, of near Centre Hall, last Thursday afternoon was not a surprise to many of his acquaintances, who had known of his serious sickness for several weeks. Mr. Harper had been a great sufferer from cerebro spinal meningites, and for several days previous to his death his son, J. C. Harper, was kept at the bedside of his sick father. Deceased was about 60 years of age and his remains were interred at Rebersburg last Saturday.

—Rev. Heckman, the pastor of the M. E. charge, preached in the Lutheran church on Sunday evening, his text having been taken from Deut. 33: There were no services in any of the other churches and the consequence was that he had a very large audience, who were much interested in his discourse. He announced preaching in the same church in four weeks from last Sunday. On account of quarterly conference and the rededication of the M. E. church in Centre Hall, which will take place next Sunday a week at that place the services here will then be dispensed with.

—Boils, pimples, skin grubs, black maggots, eruptions, scaly skin, &c., indicate poisoned blood, and besides being disagreeable to you, afflicted reader, they are unpleasant to your friends and those compelled to come in contact with you; you owe it as a duty to your health and your friends, to take a bottle or two of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparilla Alterative, and be more pleasant and agreeable to look at. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

AARONSBURG.

Miss Kate Bollinger is teaching a subscription school at Wolf's school house.

Rev. Leisenring (Luth.) of Lewisburg and Rev. Grow (Ref.) of Boalsburg, were seen in town one day last week.

H. H. Yearick and H. S. Gross, with their respective families, left for their homes in Philadelphia last week.

H. H. Weaver has returned from York state with a fine lot of Holstein cattle. He has left his drove in Nittany Valley, where he intends to make his principle sales.

Another attempt to raise a subscription school was made with no better result than the one made a few weeks ago. This necessitates a few of our boys to go to Millheim and attend school.

Mrs. David Bollinger has recently had her house weather boarded, which greatly improves the appearance, as well as enhances the value of her dwelling. George, next give it a coat of paint.

Miss Minnie and Lulu Kurtz, with their brother Newtie, were up from Mifflinburg during Saturday and Sunday last—we suppose to take in the Centennial festival and see their friends generally. At least we know of no other attraction. Do you, girls?

Each successive week brings a slow but decided improvement in the health of Luther Stoyer, who is about closing out an eight weeks siege with typhoid fever. He is now able to move about in the house. The Luth. Sabbath School and choir are anxiously awaiting his final recovery, as the loss of his services are very largely felt at both places, especially in the infant department of the school.

All those having special interest in the centennial festival held last Saturday evening, are more than pleased with the result of their efforts to make the same a success. The attendance was large and the order very commendable. All the refreshments prepared for the occasion were sold. The Millheim band which was in attendance in their new suits, made a very prepossessing appearance. The financial report has not yet been given by the treasurer.

ANOTHER.

SPRING MILLS.

Rev. Leisenring and family, from Lewisburg, is spending his vacation at this place.

J. F. Wilson and wife, of Tyrone, Pa., are here on a visit.

Mr. M. N. Miller, of this place, made a very narrow escape from having his hand badly lacerated one day last week. While feeding the seperator he got his hand too near the cylinder and one of the spikes caught his hand just enough to cut the skin. Take warning.

The commercial men seem to make this place their head quarters. Pleasant pastime, good meals, pure air, seem to be the attractions.

WOODWARD.

Some evil disposed persons having in mind the proverb "handsome is that handsome does," and who had not an invitation to enjoy a ride on our handsome little boat, now attempt its destruction.

The moral of our community is slightly on the wane.

Newton Miller, son of Daniel Miller, met with an extremely painful accident last Thursday at J. C. Motz's saw mill, having his arm frightfully lacerated by falling on a large circular saw.

At last Saturday's delegate election there was quite an exciting time over the Prothonataryship. Shaffer got the delegates.

Our Sunday school will picnic in the grove back of the church next Saturday. Brass and string music will be there and a pleasant day is anticipated. A cordial invitation is extended to all to join in the day's pleasures.

Some of the village dogs are not satisfied with haying all the dog days to themselves, but insist in howling half the night. ARGENTI.

COBURN.

Benj. Kerstetter is putting up a new dwelling house east of the station to be occupied by Mr. Wibley the track foreman here.

Saturday, election day, was lively around here. Considerable talking was done for the different candidates but Shaffer was the favorite and carried the township.

Sunday the Evangelical congregation had preaching twice by their P. E. Rev. Ettlinger.

Tuesday was convention day in Bellefonte and the town was crowded. 37 excursion tickets were sold from our station and when the train reached Bellefonte it was completely packed, even no standing room. Our township of Penn was honored by the election of W. H. Kremer as Secretary of the convention and A. A. Frank of Millheim and Thos. McCann, of Snow Shoe as tellers. At 7.30 our train pulled out and landed us safe at Coburn a bout 9 o'clock. While in Bellefonte the writer witnessed the beautiful burial services of the G. A. R., at the grave of Col Wilson. VALE.

CENTRE HALL.

The new portico in front of J. W. Henney's house on Church street adds greatly to the appearance of his home.

The M. E. Congregation have frescoed their church. Looks beautiful.

The new Foundry Store room is about completed and will be occupied by Mr. T. B. Ulrich as the printing office of the new paper.

W. B. Shirk, M. B. Richards and J. A. Hemming have much improved their respective homes by weatherboarding and painting.

J. H. Krumbine is erecting a house at the lower end of town and expects to occupy it this fall yet.

Henry Boozer is building a slaughter house outside the borough limits. It was rather a nuisance in the town.

John Rishel is remodeling his dwelling, which when completed will be one of the finest residences in town.

The delegate election on Saturday was well attended but passed off quietly. The result was very flattering to our towsman, W. B. Mingle, who received a nearly unanimous vote for Prothonotary. The convention on Tuesday caused much interest and anxiety here.

Mr. John Harper, who had been seriously ill for sometime, died on Thursday and was burried at Rebersburg on Sunday.

Mrs. Shoop, who had her home with her son William, in this place, departed this life on Friday last and was buried on Monday. X.

REBERSBURG.

The late rains have promoted the growth of the corn very much and the present outlook for an abundant crop is good.

J. R. Brumgart has moved into his new brick house and has torn down the old dwelling house. This is a decided improvement to his splendid farm.

Julius Weidenheimer, of Philadelphia, the man who sells watches, &c. sojourns at present in our town.

A small child of Wm. Wate is seriously ill and its recovery is doubtful.

One day last week while Harvey Bierly was mowing with a scythe he accidentally let it slip through his hand thereby inflicting an ugly gash which will disable him for work for several weeks.

Adam Ketner and wife, of Lock Haven, spent several days this week among friends and relatives in this neighborhood.

Our band boys did not get over to the Greenburr band picnic last Saturday, as was expected. The boys were out in full uniform bright and early and, no doubt, some of them were fostering pleasant thoughts about the coming good time and the long table filled with the choicest of eatables. Imagine their disappointment when they recieved information that their teamster would not come as he had other engagements. The band disbanded in disgust and regretfully thought of "ye olden times."

The remains of John Harper, of Centre Hall, were brought here for interment last Sunday. They were followed to the last resting place in the Lutheran Reformed cemetery by a large concourse of people. The services were preached in the Reformed church by Rev. Land, of Centre Hall. Deceased was in former years a resident in this vicinity and had many friends.

The plasterers are done with their work in Jno. Spangler's house. The carpenters and the painters will ere long give it the finishing touch. Mr. Spangler's house will make a very handsome appearance when done.

A vagrant traveler passes from house to house in this valley at present. The woman pretends to be in search of employment, but when work is offered her she will use some lame excuse and refuse to be hired. Some of our citizens consider her of a doubtful character and it would be well if our law officers would take her up for vagabondry.

Daniel Wolf and his brother Thomas came near having a serious accident last Saturday evening, while driving through town. Some young chaps ran against their horse with such force that the horse fell to the ground, almost upsetting the buggy. Boys, you should use more care in the future.

SQUIBOB.

SMITH TOWN.

The oats harvest is nearly over and some of the farmers are getting ready for seeding.

William Huey has gone to Sunbury on a visit.

John B. Smith lost a valuable cow on Sunday by bloating.

Mrs. Anna Frank, of Millheim, spent Monday and Tuesday among us.

Nearly all our young folks took in the Aaronsburg centennial last Saturday evening and report a good time, especially Mary.

J. H. Frank left on Monday morning's train for the western part of the county to sell some of his celebrated Farmer's Friend wheat.

Susan Martin, of Nittany Valley, is here on a few week's visit to her sister, Mrs. John Harshbarger.

On Monday evening one of our young ladies, whose birthday occurred at that time, was greatly surprised by a large party of lady and gentlemen friends, who made their appearance at her home, equipped with several ice cream freezers and who at once proceeded to make the most delicious ice cream. About 20 persons partook of the treat and a real nice time was had. The lady also received several valuable presents. JUMBO.

D. S. KAUFFMAN & CO.

The Boy and the Farm.

G. H. SWITZER.

The average farmer boy seems to think that he has a very disagreeable and monotonous life, and therefore envies the city boy of his own age his pleasures and pastimes. He considers farm life a drudgery, and sees no real pleasure in it. Consequently, many country boys early make up their minds to leave home and seek fortunes amid city life. This too often leads to their ruin. Why does a boy want to go to the city? From careful observation we conclude, in a great many cases, it is the fault of the fathers. Many fathers forget that they were once boys themselves. Because they have no desire for amusements, they think their boys should take the same interest in the farm work they do, regarding amusements as fit only for lazy people or loafers. We know from actual experience that at no time is there no work to do on the farm. We also know that the farmer lives an independent life, and there is scarcely any time when he cannot lay aside the duties of the farm for a day or two, if he so desires.

Boys should be taught to love the farm, not by compelling them to work hard from early morning till late evening, week after week, without any time that they may call their own. Give them a day occasionally for a ramble in the woods, or for any harmless pastime. In this way the boys will be led to see for themselves that farming is an independent, lite and they will take an interest in the farm.

Every farmer should take one or more farm journals, read them, and encourage his boys to do the same. No farmer has "no time to read a paper." In this many farmers are in error. They work hard and wonder why they are not more successful, when often they are working in direct opposition to their own interest. Successful farming requires "head work." To encourage the boy to stay on the farm, give him a young colt, calf, or eyen a pig, and let him feel that he owns an interest in the farm. If the father gives his son a pig, let the boy do the best he can with it and have the money which it brings when marketed. He should never blast the hopes and cause him to despise the farm, and his father too, by pocketing the money himself, calling it "son's pig and father's hog." By allowing the boy to make a little money for himself, he can be taught the real value of money as well as the principles of liberality. The boy who scarcely eyer has a cent to call his own always envies those who haye; and when he gets a little money he is almost afraid to part with it under any consideration, for fear that he will never get any more. Thus it establishes a miserly tendency. Fathers, study this subject carefully. Give the boys a day for themselves occasionally; let them earn a little pocket money; give them a young animal once in a while, so that they will feel interested in the farm. Such measures will cost you nothing in the end, and may save your boys

A NARROW ESCAPE.

The Romance Youth and the Common Sense of Old-Maidism.

'Ah!' she said, 'I loved once.'

'Did you?'

'Yes. I thought he was a god, a kind of superior creature. My parents would not hear of the match. The more they objected the more I loved him. We kept up a correspondence secretly. We had arranged to be married. My parents were stern and cruel, but I had a bosom friend, who was married, and she had arranged that the ceremony should take place at her house, unknown to any of my family. Three days before I heard strange stories about my beloved. I broke off the engagement. He came to the house; he groveled on his knees before me. He swore by all the old and several new gods that he loved me, and me alone. I relented, and the wedding was to come off at the home of my bosom friend.'

'Well?'

'On the day before the wedding my bosom friend's husband got into a convivial crowd and drank a little too much. In a burst of good humor he in vited my brother to the wedding, and I was securely locked up until I was brought to terms.'

'And now—'

'And now I'm awfully glad of it.'

Of Interest to Ladies.
